

Jeanlee Wallang Villaruz is a dedicated hospitality professional and educator.

She honed her craft in the hospitality industry through hands-on experience at Le Chef at the Golf Club, Camp John Hay, where she developed her operational expertise.

She is a certified holder of Trainers Methodology 1, with her specialization in barista craft and bartending, she has become a sought-after trainer and mentor, mentorship programs that equip students and professionals with practical, globally relevant competencies.

With her academic endeavor, she continues to inspire the next generation of hospitality professionals while championing MPSU's vision as a culturally grounded, innovative, and world-class institution.

The Threads

The hospitality industry is a place of unfolded tapestry
Woven by the threads that are interconnected to people's voices
The travelers are the seeds being conveyed by the wind
Seeking a patch of earth where they may find their inner self
The hotel lobby is a fertile soil that supports its concierge being the gardener
Feeling exactly how much light and water does one requires to bloom
The hotel itself transcends as the lighthouse built not out of stone, but of comfort
Its windows are the source of radiant light that gazes over the dark horizon
Signaling that there is a harbor, a storm cannot reach
The staff are silent clocks that work behind the face of time
They are the gears that always turn without a hint of sound
Guaranteeing a place where the melody of the guests stays and never misses a single beat
The white linen of bed linked as a blank page, granting a new story to tell
The meal served as the sacred bridge, spanning the distance of a hunger feeling of being known
In this unpredictable world, service is undoubtedly the source of warmth that is scattered as a thread
Binding people, connected to common journey – a promise that no matter how far one wanders
There is a place that deeply connects even the slightest need of affection